

PART THREE

CASE STUDIES

ENGAGEMENT AND INDIGENOUS PARTICIPATION

Rio Tinto Cultivating mutual understanding and learning	96
Freeport-McMoRan Managing expectations	97
Rio Tinto Diavik mine – Establishing and delivering on effective participation agreements	98
Teck Collaborative consultation – experience with a First Nations independent technical review	99
Freeport-McMoRan Addressing the gender gap	100
Barrick Early engagement and agreements with native title owners in New South Wales	101
Barrick Flexibility and co-operation in delivering on agreements	102
Freeport-McMoRan Establishing educational programs to promote continued development	103
MANAGING IMPACTS
Newmont Martu ranger program in Western Australia	104
Barrick Respecting the cultural heritage of Indigenous Peoples	105
Freeport-McMoRan Preparing for mine closure in Indonesia	106
Freeport-McMoRan Preserving traditions and promoting arts and culture	107
Newmont Muntjiljtarra Wurrugumu Group's Martu attitudinal survey	108
Newmont Reviewing partnership agreements	109
Rio Tinto Supporting indigenous small-scale miners in Namibia	110

AGREEMENTS

Barrick Fostering local culture and language – Shoshone Youth Language Apprenticeship Program	111
Teck Red Dog mine – Accessing royalties and profit-sharing mechanisms	112
Glencore Raglan mine – Accessing royalties and profit-sharing mechanisms	113
Barrick Cowal mine (previously owned by Barrick) – Procurement from indigenous suppliers	114
Newmont FPIC in action: documenting FPIC-related processes during exploration phase – in Suriname	115
BHP Billiton Olympic Dam – Aboriginal business development	116
BHP Billiton Potash Opportunities agreements	117
Glencore Raglan mine: Company–community committee to govern agreement	119
Rio Tinto Reviewing the implementation and effectiveness of company–community agreements	120
Teck Sharing knowledge of culture and country	121
GRIEVANCE MECHANISMS
Cerrejón FPIC and expansion project	122